

J. H. S. WINS STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

Fort Atkinson Second, Walworth Third, and Milton Last.

The stock judging team of the Janesville high school will represent this section of the state at the Wisconsin county fair, which is being held at Madison in January as the result of its overwhelming victory in the contest against teams from Walworth, Milton and Fort Atkinson high schools yesterday.

Not only did the Janesville team have the high score for the judging, but the members of the team took first, second and third places in the individual judging, which is an exceptionally good showing.

George Terwilliger of the Janesville team ranked first with a score of 923 and five-sixths points, Harry McCann second with 877 and five-sixths, and Stuart Paul third with 860 and five-sixths. The team which proved a winner was 2382 and four sixths out of a possible 2400 points for the six events of the contest.

The highest score in the judging contest was held in the stock judging contest by the Janesville team.

The Fort Atkinson team under the direction of H. P. Rait, took second place in the stock judging contest, with a team score of 2400 and two sixths and Walworth nosed out the Milton team for third place with a score of 2328 and three-sixths.

Five Classes Judged.

Two different classes of stock were judged by the boys in the day of the contest. The first class was in the vicinity of Janesville where they were taken in autos.

The victory of the Janesville team over the other three aggregations representing the high schools of neighboring communities even more than the city of Janesville is a great credit to the judging skill of the Janesville team and its director, Allen West, teacher of agriculture.

First place in all events, but their averages were very high. George Terwilliger made the highest score for any event with 923 and five-sixths.

Second place was made by members of the Walworth, Fort Atkinson and Milton team as follows, fractions are omitted. H. P. Rait, 877; Robert Marshall, 866; and Glen Downing, 851.

Walworth: Arthur Benner, 797; Alvin Jurgens, 825 and Wilfred Ryan, 794.

Milton: Roscoe Glynn, 824; Elton Bingham, 758, and Morris Van Horn, 755.

The teams were under the direction of the agriculture teachers in the high school which they represented. H. P. Rait, Walworth; J. W. Cunniff, Walworth; and J. W. Cunniff, Walworth.

Complete Tabulation

In the following tabulation of scores made in the six events of the contest the judges considered 200 points as the highest possible score which could be made in any event.

ST. PAUL CHAIRMAN WARNS LOCAL ORDER AGAINST UNAUTHORIZED STRIKE

Speaking against the unauthorized strike of the C. M. & St. P. Railroad Brotherhood of Trainmen, addressed the members of the local brotherhood Thursday night.

The occasion was a banquet at Eagles hall for the inauguration of officers of the order and of the women's auxiliary.

Results of striking independently and without the approval of the brotherhood, Mr. Gallagher pointed out in the need now at Christmas time of the families of those men who struck at Chicago last spring.

These families, he said, are badly in need of aid because their husbands were not permitted to return to the jobs they deserted.

Two hundred attended the banquet, which was served by the women's auxiliary. Dancing followed.

Some discussion was heard in railroad circles here today on the passing of the Polinder bill by the United States senate Thursday which would forbid strikes on railroads.

St. Paul, Minn., secretary of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, stated that he believes that the bill will die when it gets to the house.

He said, "but it failed to get by the house."

CROSSINGS MATTER SEEMS MUDDLED

Officials at Odds on Question of Who's to Make Next Move.

What is the next step to be taken in regard to the elimination of grade crossings at the railroad in Janesville?

The state railroad commission puts it up to the city officials and citizens, according to a telephone call received at the police station here shortly before noon today.

Appleton police attorney today abandoned along the roadside just outside the city limits.

The $26 reward offered will go to the Appleton police. Mr. Dunwiddie is in Mineral Point and will not return until tomorrow afternoon, when he will probably make arrangements to bring the machine back.

According to the Appleton chief of police, license plates of the Dunwiddie car were thrown away in Fort Atkinson and new ones substituted. Identification of the car was made through cards sent out by the local police department giving the engine number.

The car was taken from North Wisconsin street about 5:15 o'clock Saturday evening. The Park Street garage reported two young men in a Ford car bought 5 gallons of gasoline there about 8:30.

COUNTY TRUANT OFFICERS FAVORED

County truant officers were favored by the county superintendent meeting in Madison from which O. D. Antisdel, Rock county superintendent, returned today.

The association also went on record as favoring establishment of county boards of education and uniform methods of certifying country school instructors.

It, E. Sanders, Winnebago county, was elected president, George V. Kelly, Green Lake, vice president; E. Johnson, Eau Claire, secretary and treasurer.

Superintendent Antisdel took part in the discussion of country school buildings.

Complaint Was Signed.

"While the mayor and myself signed a joint complaint to the commission," declared Cunningham, "we did so only because the citizens did not have the power."

The commission is not slack, in the opinion of the state officials, have been inquiring for months as to when action by the citizens would be taken.

Mr. Cunningham further stated that a meeting was held here a month ago at which Attorney Jeffris, Dr. Fred Sutherland, George Woodruff and James Philo were in attendance.

They asked Mr. Jeffris at that time to take steps to call the meeting with the commission, he says.

"Mr. Jeffris is very busy," says the city attorney, "and I believe that is why he has not taken action to call the meeting."

MOVE TO ABOLISH TOWN ASSESSORS

Believe Better Equality Possible by Having Only County Assessor.

Abolishment of the office of the town assessor and the election or appointment of a county assessor on an adequate salary for a long term may be recommended by the state tax commission, say Janesville men who have knowledge of tax policies.

The coming administration with Blaine as governor, they say, is going to attempt to institute radical changes in the taxation system of the state.

The matter of assessment in the counties and in townships, it is held, needs correcting. The remuneration of the township assessor is deemed not sufficient for the amount of work or the responsibility. The assessment work requires from one to two months' time in each township and the pay is seldom more than $150 for the year. Also it is pointed out that there are certain to be considerable variations in the assessments of one township from another due to differences of opinion of each assessor. Under a system of one county assessor it is claimed the assessment would be more uniform.

Janesville tax men are also expecting a change in the income tax law, possibly the abolishing of the personal property off-set in the determining of income taxes.

PROPOSAL TO HIRE POLICE WOMAN IS FURTHER ENDORSED

Although ill and unable to be present at the W. C. T. U. meeting held at the home of Mrs. Walter Helms yesterday afternoon, Judge Harry L. Maxfield expressed his belief in a message as being heartily in favor of having a policewoman in Janesville.

"I believe in a policewoman for Janesville," he said in his communication. "I believe that women should perform the duties of citizenship by serving on juries, and also firmly believe as being heartily in favor of having a policewoman in Janesville."

The topic of discussion of the afternoon was "Does Janesville Need a Policewoman or Travelers Aid?" A letter was read from Mrs. Hamilton of Madison in regard to the duties of a police matron in that city. Madison has for years employed one of these officials and is now engaging a new one. She has her own office above the police station with several beds so that she can house friendly girls if the occasion arises. As follows were outlined briefly as public dances, movies, parks, carnivals, and to attend court, wherever cases came up for judgment. Records are kept of delinquent girls, and follow up work is attempted in such cases, to try to get them to go straight.

"It needs the right woman," she said. "One who is broad minded, with good judgment, and ready sympathy, who is intelligent, and who can keep her mouth shut, many times in regard to her duties. Such a woman would do untold good in dealing with many problems which come up, especially in a city which has such a large percentage of young girls living away from their homes."

A general discussion of cases known in which women had helped to set things right under the tutelage of Mrs. H. A. Palmer who was in charge of the program. The consensus of opinion was that Janesville should have such an official, and that the need would be increasingly felt as the city grows in size.

The company has at present two factories in operation, one in St. Paul, and the other in Stevens Point, both of which are capable of the raw material and the manufacturer. The two plants in operation each employ an average of upwards of 60 men and the whole year. It is sufficient acreage of flax can be arranged to be grown by the farmers, a factory will be arranged for here at once.

ALBANIA ADMITTED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS
The provisions of the mandates would be made in the report to the assembly.
Disposal of this question and decision relative to the league budget were all that remained today to be disposed of during this session of the assembly.

Yesterday the British empire was divided on nearly every question, South Africa and Canada voting against Great Britain on the admission of Georgia; Canada voting against South Africa and Great Britain ain regarding Armenia and Australia, abstaining from voting when the application of Bulgaria was up.

The action of the committee in recommending the rejection of the applications of Baltic States and Georgia was due largely to American influence. The committee had before it a document containing the note sent on August 10 to the Italian ambassador by Secretary of State Coghly, who stated the United States policy was that decision should be held in abeyance concerning territories carved out of the former Russian empire.
Take notice of the American delegation today presented on behalf of his government a proposition to intervene in behalf of the Armenians with an international military force of 40,000 to 15,000 men under command of an international staff. He said Rumania was to furnish her quota.

Voice of the People
Editor, Gazette:
I believe the people of Janesville like good vaudeville shows and are willing to pay the money to see them. But they are not, I believe, particularly fond of the brand of vaudeville they have been getting. Perhaps Evangelist Dow was right in what he said about Janesville's shows, although I'm not one of those narrow-minded enough to swallow his dope on dancing.
I went to a vaudeville show at the Apollo theater last night that was not only degrading, but a deliberate insult to the entire audience. I was pleased, however, with the weak applause given. It convinced me that Janesville people are opposed to vulgarity and questionable songs and alleged jokes as heard on the stage. It seems to me high time that the managers of our vaudeville houses made some effort to get a higher class of shows, at least as good as those in Madison and Rockford. If it is necessary to charge more money to see them, I don't think it will be any bar to packing the theaters.

When I go to a vaudeville show now, I feel I am taking a gambler's chance. Nine times out of ten I'll get "stung."
I don't know just what can be done to improve the quality of vaudeville shows here. It appears that theater owners are content to pack them in every night for 30 and 40 cents to see the present grade.

STATE HAS FUNDS TO BUILD SCHOOLS

Madison.—State finances are such that $300,000 can be transferred to the common school fund to help in the construction of more school houses, State Treasurer Henry Johnson said in a letter to Governor Phillip. It is the opinion of Mr. Johnson that new and better school houses are preferable to consolidation which cuts down the number of buildings.

"By removing the school from a community we are moving the best landmark, especially in the northern part of the state," he declared. "The best advertisement to being settlers is a school house." In his letter to the governor Treasurer Johnson says:

"I am at this time calling your attention to the fact that there is on file in the land office applications from school districts and municipalities to the amount of more than $1,500,000.

"The state finances are such that I believe we can at this time transfer to the common school fund on the indebtedness the sum of $300,000. This will in many instances help districts to build new school houses."

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER XXIII

DISAPPROVAL

We had arrived at the little town peculiarly known as The Corners—originally a place where three roads cross and now a collection of small houses, stores and one moving picture theater. I think both Mark and myself felt uncomfortable by this time. But Mark dismissed his feelings with one word "Boah!" and went and bought tickets for the show. It was, I suppose, a very bad show. But I saw so little in those days that the cheapest movie film was a thrilling event to me. The clothes the actresses wore seemed to be the best work in style and beauty—though the film must have been years old for that little house to get it—and the whole thing delighted me. Yet all the way through the evening I carried this uncomfortable feeling and when we drove home, I was glad that Mark ran his car faster. It made the trip shorter.

"Did you mean what you said—that word?" he asked as we reached the farmhouse.

"Yes," I answered, climbing down—unassisted as usual—from the machine.

"Well, of course—" It was all he said. But his voice implied volumes.

"Mark," I said impulsively, standing by the car, "there are a lot of things I'd like to tell you to say next time you ask a woman to marry you."

"Erid," he answered shortly, "you're a sentimental fool!"

I sighed a little as I walked up to the dark house. Of course the family had gone to bed long ago. It was nearly 11. So this was my first proposal—and my last in all probability! For I was old, and I was home.

One of the greatest tragedies is to be a misfit in life. The woman who aspires far above herself, who has not the power to get them, will never be satisfied with the things on her level—or below—that she can get. Such a woman is a misfit. There are millions of them. Yet if they steadily refuse the things that are lower, they may never reach the heights—but at least, they will have climbed a little higher.

And this was myself. I did not know what I aspired to, but I did know that in something as sacred as love and marriage, it would be higher and better than Mark. Or else it would be nothing.

I went indoors—we never locked up at night, not even since the house was stolen. There was a light in the kitchen; when I went out there, Esther was sitting waiting for me. Esther in her nightgown was a strange creature, though I did not think much of it then. Her neglected, overgrown figure was encased in a yellow flannel wrapper, hideous enough to make the most exquisite woman terrible.

"Why are you up?" I asked. I could think of nothing but illness to keep her up in the busy summer beyond 9 or 10.

"I wanted to know all about it," she said. Her little eyes were beady and eager. I wondered whether I could avoid telling my conversation with Mark.

"It was a nice show," I began. "They had one funny film, about a boy and a—"

"Erid Haines, you know well enough what I want to hear about," she interrupted shortly. "Did he speak or didn't he?"

"Why do you think he did?" I answered coaxingly, still wishing to avoid telling her.

"Never mind, I got some sense. New fall me."

It was useless to keep anything from Esther.

"Well, he did, if you want to know," I answered defiantly. "I thought so!" Her face relaxed into lines of approval and pleasure. "Is it all settled, then?"

"I thought so!" I answered, dreading this "I refused him."

"You what?" Her whole face tensed again, her eyes opened wide, and half, in loose, straggly ends around her face, almost seemed to stand up.

"I refused to marry him," I answered, trying to be calm—and I was. I was as calm as a stone.

"Erid Haines! You don't mean to tell me—you don't mean to stand there and say that you were such a fool as to turn down Mark Upjohn?"

"I mean I was just that much of a fool."

It took some minutes for her to believe it. I told her what he said as closely as I could remember it—strange, selfish, loveless proposal that it was. And when she heard it all, her mouth tightened up into a cruel little shape. I knew what was coming.

"Of course," she said, "you're Jim's sister, not mine, so nothing I can say will have any effect on you. And I don't know you're of age, and your own mistress. But I credited you with some sense! Now here you are, an old woman, practically. You never had any but this man, and you couldn't help it if he left you and married another woman years ago. But here's a case where I don't know you're of age, and you might say, as you might say—and you hadn't sense enough to see it. You could have had him—he's a decent, respectable, settled man. He's not handsome, and he's not young—but the Lord knows, neither are you. Well, I've nothing further to say. I've said all I got for you."

She picked up the lamp and started upstairs. Violet's sympathy.

Tomorrow—Violet's sympathy.

HOLIDAY SUGGESTIONS

Roast duck and goose have long been associated with the Christmas dinner in the same way that turkey is accepted as the Thanksgiving fowl.

Goose should always be chosen young and full breasted, with a white skin, a smooth, yellow bill and yellow and pliable feet. If the feet and bill are red and hard, the skin hairy and coarse, the bird is old.

Ducks, like geese, should have yellow, supple feet, the breast full and hard and the skin clear. Many cooks say that if you squeeze the windpipe close to the body and it gives easily, the bird will be tender. If it resists, pressure the windpipe with the thumb. Here are directions for preparing these fowl for the Christmas gathering and for making savory dressings and sauce to accompany them.

Roast Duck—Dress and clean a duck. Stuff with two or three apples to absorb flavor or if the stuffing is to be eaten use a potato, onion or poultry stuffing. Truss and place in fat before making gravy. Serve apple sauce with goose.

Potato, Stuffing—Two cups hot mashed potatoes, one and one-half cups stale bread crumbs one-half cup chopped salt pork, one small onion finely chopped, two tablespoons butter, two teaspoons salt, one egg, one teaspoon sage.

Griddle Cakes—One pint sour milk, one egg, one-half teaspoon baking soda, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt. Add flour to make thin batter.

Beat egg, add sour milk to which soda has been added, sift salt, baking powder and flour and add to first mixture. Cook on hot griddle.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

Now that you mention it, it would be rather nice if the baby grew up to be an orchestra leader. Speaking from my own experiences during the past few weeks, anything would be better than selling Daisy Canned Soups, or rather, offering them for sale, to be more exact. To merely say business is rotten would be painting a very pretty picture of the situation.

I wouldn't advise you to take the fact that the baby waves his arms a lot as a sure indication that he has talents as the captain of an orchestra. You know brakemen on trains do considerable arm waving too, not to speak of dog catchers and taffy makers' assistants. In other words, the only sure way to tell what's going to become of a baby is to tell him to go and do it. In many cases it's not even advisable to do that. Not that I'm leaving wet blankets at your hopes for the baby's future, because I'm constantly hoping myself that he'll end up as a rich and honorable member of the community, such as a landlord.

Did you read about that young chap near Boston who's turning down a million dollar inheritance because he wants to live his own life? That's the kind of man I admire, Tessie. I don't think he ought to be allowed to run around loose, but just the same I admire his spirit. A million dollars is an awful burden on any man's shoulders, and I'd be more grateful to anybody for leaving me a mere pittance like say $50,000 than a million, but still at the same time when it came to refusing the million I think I'd collapse under the effort.

After all a million isn't nearly as much trouble nowadays as it used to be, and I for one wouldn't give way to an impulse to refuse one for fear I'd start to give way to all my other impulses and gradually become violent. If anybody offers to give you a million, Tessie, or even a half a million, I want you to promise not to fly into a rage over the offer till you have consulted me.

It might not be such a bad idea to start teaching the baby the value of money. Offer him a cent, for instance, and if he never takes it by swallowing it, give him a rap on the knuckles. If he tries to swallow a nickel, two raps, and a dime, three, and so on. Meanwhile remember me kindly to him.

Affectionately,
JOE.

HE FOUND IT

A Wichita man dropped into a movie theater the other night to see the popular film entitled "Behold My Wife," and the first thing the man beheld was his wife sitting in the balcony escorted by another man. The plot then developed into a thriller, ending happily with both principals landing in police court.

TAILLEUR FROCK HAS HIGH COLLAR

By FLOISE.

The tailleur frock has become firmly established in the fashion world. It is the business woman, no doubt, who has made the straight, simple, slim-line frock popular.

It is she who must have the plain-tailored frock for business wear and it is her need which has developed the tailored frock to its present high degree.

The tailored gown of today is a work of art. It is perfection in the matter of line and fit and is exquisitely made, for the modern busy woman has no time to mend flimsy garments before each wearing of her clothes. Dressmakers say that they will always have a line of tailored frocks for there is always a demand for them.

Here is a smart tailleur frock of Paris design. It is built on straight lines which are extremely becoming to a youthful figure. The high fur-trimmed collar is very pretty and makes the frock suitable for street wear when the weather is mild. Fur trims the cuffs also. The sleeves are rather short, a new feature, but the shoulders are very snug. The material is a dark brown with a tan cross bar pattern. Buttons trim the blouse on the right side and the skirt on the left side.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton.

Will there be a woman in the new cabinet? And, if there is, who will be the honored woman? These are two questions which are being asked again and again by the women voters and by politicians of the country. There are also more than a few men interested in the same question, but, of course, no definite answer has been made. Rumor, that very elusive thing, has started stories both for and against a woman in the cabinet. It is a question that will not be decided by the authorities, or rather the decision will not be made public, for some time to come. Meanwhile we may ruminate and conjecture as we wait upon possible women for appointment.

Just now Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, Ohio, is spoken of by many as a possible member of President-elect Harding's new cabinet, especially if the education bill, which is now pending, is passed. Mrs. Upton is vice president of the republican national committee, making her second in position only to Will Hays. She has been a worker for suffrage for more than a score of years and for many years was president of the Ohio Suffrage association.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: One of my boy friends whom I like very much has left town. He promised to write and so I wrote to him a length of time, but he never received an answer. Would you continue writing to him if you were in my place? DUBAIDY.

No. Do not write again. If the young man had wished to continue the correspondence he would have written to you by this time.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is the most appropriate gift to give a young lady for Christmas? I have kept company with her for about eight months, but we are not engaged. ANXIOUS.

The most appropriate gift would probably be flowers. They are certainly would also be all right. It is not appropriate, however, to give jewelry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls sixteen years of age and not at all popular with the boys. We are not bad looking and have a number of clothes. We have a large number of girl friends. When we go to a dance they never ask us for a dance and we are good dancers. Please tell us how we can be popular with the boys as well as girls. BLUE EYES.

At the age of sixteen you are too young to be popular with boys. I would advise you to stay away from dances unless you are accompanied by some boy. When you are older you will probably have attention, too, although you may have been popular. Popularity is a question of personality. Some very fine girls never attract in numbers. I think, however, you are just as happy with your few friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty years old and have been keeping steady company with a girl of seventeen until a few weeks ago. I have always loved this girl dearly and she seemed to love me, and so we decided to get married.

To make sure of our love for each other before we were married we decided to stay apart for a few weeks. Now a couple of things have happened since then that I would like to ask your advice about.

(1) Do you think it is right on the girl's part to pass the boy she is engaged to on the street and not speak to him when he speaks to her?

(2) And when after the girl later snubbed the boy, a few days later writes the boy a post card saying, "Dearie, something terrible has happened. I must see you at once." Would you go to see the girl or not? ON RICE WALK.

(1) It seems to me that the girl should have spoken. She might have refused in fun, however, thinking that she was living up to the agreement in the highest degree.

(2) If you love the girl I would advise you to go to see what she wants.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young widow and since my husband's death I am very lonely. Before my marriage I was often in company with a young man and he and I were very good friends. He is now married and lives in another town.

How could I let him know that now he can make my life happy without doing anything improper?

THE MAN BELONGS TO ANOTHER WOMAN

Now add you have no right to expect anything from him. How would you have felt when your husband was living if some old sweet heart of his let him know that she was free to have him make her life happy? You would not have liked it, of course.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE

For Mrs. Grundy

"Dear Miss Page—My husband and I have invited our friends to call Sunday evenings ever since we were married, and his friends particularly have liked to drop in—the men he knew before. Now he is being transferred to another city for several weeks for me to go on having people in for Sunday tea?—Perplexed."

Perfectly all right; neither your husband nor your friends would expect you to go into solitary confinement, my dear! Just be careful not to let the same unmarried man "drop in" too often. They don't require an invitation one of your girl friends or a married couple to come each week, thereby making sure of avoiding a tote-a-tote as you think that would set the gossip talking.

The "Between" Gift

"Dear Miss Page—Can you suggest something just a little nicer than a Christmas card, yet not really a regular present that I can give to a man?—Mary Louise."

At any first class stationers or gift shop you should be able to find any number of "between card and gift" remembrances that would be suitable, such as calendars, desk pads, (memory-jotters, appointment slips, telephone lists, etc.) or interesting little gift books.

Soretta—Won't you please send a stamped and addressed envelope for a personal reply to your interesting letter.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn, owing to the considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the questions.

—The Editor.

The Last Stage.

"What about his intentions, dear?" "They are serious."

"Are you sure?"

"Quite. When he's with me he can't even talk about him. He's just as over his motor car."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THE first thing you want in foods—and the all important thing is purity. Cost—taste—everything else is of minor consideration.

Foods should be nourishing. That's what they are for—to build up strong, sturdy bodies.

Calumet Baking Powder is pure in the can. It is made in the largest, cleanest, most modern Baking Powder Factories on earth—only of such ingredients as have been officially endorsed by United States Food Authorities.

KEEP your baking costs down

HERE'S THE BEST WAY TO USE CALUMET BAKING POWDER

BEST BY TEST

It's pure in the baking. Calumet never fails to produce the sweetest and most palatable of nourishing foods.

It has more than the ordinary leavening strength. You use less of it. That's one reason it is the most economical of all leaveners.

Another reason is—it is sold at a moderate price—you save when you buy it.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

HIGH SCHOOL IN OPENING BASKET CONFLICT TONIGHT

Although composed mostly of men new to the sport, the team of Janesville high school opens the scholastic basketball season here tonight with Delavan Institute for the Deaf as the opponents. Following a week of interclass basketball and another of still practice with the faculty and the American Legion, the outfit is ready.

Coach Reynier probably will not pick the men to play until tonight. After the workouts of the week, the choice has shimmered to nine men from Grider, Bick, McDermott, Knapp and Dawson, forwards; Smith and Crowley, centers; and Lane, Kelly, and Newman, guards. All of these players are showing light and are promising material.

With basketball as the main sport of the school, a large crowd is expected for the first battle.

Village Church to Boost Boxing and Other Sports

Clean sports make clean youths.

So believes the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, pastor of the church of Christ in Footville. Under the guidance of the church the youths of the Footville district will have boxing, wrestling, basketball, volleyball and other handball for winter sports with baseball for the summer.

An athletic association has been formed in the Footville church in which 36 boys have enrolled for a starter. They have rented a gymnasium in the Masonic hall and raised more than $100 which was used for athletic equipment.

The association will open its program of church sports with a wrestling exhibition on Dec. 20 between association members. Gloves have been bought for boxing under the instruction of their young pastor.

"I believe in good clean sports for the young people of the church," explained Rev. Smith. "Boxing? Why certainly. Clean and carefully supervised boxing is one of the finest sports for the American youth. It teaches manliness and honesty in competition. There is a difference between fighting and boxing."

Wilbur Rote is president of the association, with Clyde Miller, brant, secretary, and James Clayton Honeysett, director of games.

BASEBALL LEADERS GET DOWN TO CASES

M. H. Sexton, left; Judge K. M. Landis, center, and John A. Heydler.

Baseball's heads are pulling together once more. With the warring factions brought together by the selection of Judge K. M. Landis as the supreme power, the major and minor leagues are pulling to put the game back on a high plane and cleanse it of all the muck it has picked up. The picture above shows the spirit now. Judge Landis is the connecting link and binding power between the major and minor leagues (the minors), represents the little fellows. John A. Heydler is president of the National league.

NEW AGREEMENT BEFORE AMERICANS

New York, Dec. 17.—Ratification of the new agreement with the National league is the most important matter to come before the annual meeting of the American league here today.

President Johnson will appoint a schedule committee and April 13 probably will be decided upon as the opening date for the 1921 season.

Appointment of managers for the Detroit and St. Louis clubs are among the matters likely to be settled during the meeting. Little or no trouble is expected to arise in the negotiations between President Navin of Detroit, and Ty Cobb, relative to the latter's appointment as the Tigers' manager. As to the St. Louis manager, it was said on Thursday that no one had been selected for the place, but Lee Fohl, formerly manager of the Cleveland club, was mentioned in connection with the position.

President Johnson will confer with President Heydler of the National league on playing rules and possibly on rules to govern future world's series. As members of the advisory council created by the new major league agreement, they are required to meet and submit their report to Judge Landis, commissioner, for his approval.

CONSIDER NATIONAL COLLEGE FIELD DAY

BRINGING UP FATHER!

D'y'e 'member Those Big Days of Real Sport?

Do you remember when as a kid you sneaked down to the swimming pool room and with a lightning transaction landed a nickel or dime and in return received a hot covered novel, colored with red and scarlet with a picture of bold cow-boys, painted "Injuns" and the beautiful horizon?

Then how you sneaked up to the hay loft or down to the thicket by the swimming-hole and there in peace and comfort allowed your imagination to run riot with the tales of "Deadwood Dick!"

This time it is true—Deadwood Dick, the hero of countless "blood and thunder" novels is dead. His literature has been dead and practically off the market for years.

From Deadwood, S. D., comes the information that Richard Bullock, the real Deadwood Dick, died in Southern California. He had been mentioned by the express company.

People in the South Dakota town do not know whether the town was named after him or he after the town. Bullock came to the Black Hills many years ago. He was the gold guard of the Wells Fargo company. In his days he lived with such characters as Calamity Jane, Wild Bill, Laughing Sam and Lane Johnson. He was known to guard the coach from the Black Hills to Deadwood during the time outlaws and rampaging Indians infested the trails. He was not the author of the lurid novels but experienced in his life and his name furnished the inspiration for the "dime novel" literature.

Search of the Janesville stores shows that none of these novels is offered for sale but had away back in the shelf, and covered with dust there are still a few but not for sale.

EDLER'S PURPLE FIVE PLAYS BELOIT TONIGHT

Ray Edler's crew of Northwestern basketball players opens the season tonight with a game at Beloit.

Edler, former Lakota Cardinal player of this city, says he has some likely material this year, but that much of it comes from the grip of the Northwestern coach at Beloit, who has had to be taught basketball with great care.

Dana M. Evans, director of athletics at Northwestern, coached at Beloit for nine years and is well posted on the style of play used by the Gateway city team.

FIXED DISCOUNT RATE OPPOSED

Federal Board Unalterably Objects to Measure Before Congress.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 17.—The federal reserve board is unalterably opposed to the measure pending in congress which in any way attempts to limit the power of the board or federal reserve banks to regulate the rates of discount which those banks may charge.

Senator Harris of Georgia has proposed that the maximum rate of interest which federal reserve banks could charge member banks should be 5 per cent. A similar proposal was knocked out of the Granger-Norris resolution the other day but it has been revived separately by the senator from Georgia.

The federal reserve board views with alarm the attempts of some members of congress to tinker with the credit machinery of the country, and has not hesitated therefore to express its views so explicitly that responsibility for damage done may be easily placed by the public.

Insist on Control of Rates.—The board insists that it is essential to the functioning of any central banking system that the banks of discount shall have complete control over their rates. This control is regarded as the most effective means of protecting the gold reserves of a country against withdrawals for foreign account. For instance, the discount rate of the Bank of England is seven per cent and if America's were fixed at five per cent, foreigners would naturally seek to discount their bills here and gold would flow out of the United States. The objections to the fixing of any maximum or minimum rate and the necessity for keeping the rate within the discretion of the federal reserve system are these:

1. If a maximum rate of discount were fixed, the federal reserve banks would find it impossible to protect their gold reserves.

2. The federal reserve system would in a short time cease being a reserve system and would become simply an instrument for the speeding up of expansion.

3. A scramble for funds of the federal reserve banks would ensue and the reserve banks would have no alternative except to lend their funds at rates below the market rates until their reserves had been exhausted. Banks would be obliged to refuse to make further rediscounts no matter how meritorious the claim and they would be compelled to start a waiting list until old loans had been paid back and new funds obtained.

Only three states—Illinois, Louisiana and Michigan—have a legal rate of interest as low as 5 per cent and in 25 states the legal rate is 6 per cent and in seven states the legal rate is 7 per cent while in six other states and in the District of Columbia the legal rate is 8 per cent. Ten states allow a legal rate of 10 per cent and 10 others permit a contract rate of 12 per cent.

Therefore it is argued by members of the federal reserve board that if the discount rate were fixed at 5 per cent by law, there would be a temptation to induce a stimulus to member banks to use all the rediscount facilities of the federal reserve system in the money market at eight per cent, there would be a handsome profit of 3 per cent available to member banks in rediscount transactions. Where rates are high as 10 or 12 per cent are permitted by law, the profit would be even greater.

Bringing Down Discount Rate.—On the other hand, past experience indicates that the lowering of the discount rates to 5 per cent would not, in the judgment of the board, bring down the prevailing market rates as the latter are fixed by the laws of supply and demand.

Should the discount rate be fixed at 5 per cent, it appears to the federal reserve board's view that the limit of credit expansion would be reached quickly and that the 25 billions of dollars of government obligations available as collateral would be exhausted. Then, it is feared by members of the board, that a condition of depression much more widespread and serious than that which it is sought to remedy would follow.

GRADES OF CHEESE TO BE STANDARDIZED

(By Associated Press.)

Madison—A definite system of inspection and a set of grades of cheese were proposed at a recent meeting of representatives of the bureau of markets of the U. S. department of agriculture, the Wisconsin division of markets and the various cheese interests of the state, according to announcement from the divisions.

As a result it was said that it is planned to hold public hearings in the state at which anyone interested can suggest changes that should be made in the grades as tentatively outlined. When the grades are finally promulgated, it was declared that a campaign of education and advertising would be carried on during the six months elapsing between the date when the grades were drawn up and when they became effective.

With the use of standard grades of cheese and a definite system of state inspection and supervision, the division of markets said it hoped to raise the standard back to where it was a few years back. It was said that the state has been losing its reputation for high quality product because of lack of standard grades.

University Students Urge Credit to Europe

(By Associated Press.)

The telegram said that private charity alone could not adequately relieve conditions among the people there.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH BUYS MOVIE OUTFIT

Following the example of Catholic churches in larger cities, St. Mary's church has obtained its own moving picture machine and outfit, with the result that the first of a series of entertainments was put on Thursday afternoon and evening at the hall.

The machine is fire proof and a drop curtain has been hung across the stage. The screen is also fire-proof. With this apparatus educational films for the school children and plays for adults will be shown once a week.

"The Transgressor," a nine act drama produced by the Catholic association, was presented yesterday afternoon and evening to two capacity houses. The picture is full of thrills, laughter, and heartaches, teaching a great lesson in a simple way.

The picture was shown at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for the third time, and will also be shown at 8 o'clock this evening. The entrance to the hall is on Wisconsin street.

Proceeds of the entertainment are for the benefit of St. Mary's church.
